Gas Prices-What is Being Done

In the March issue of La Laguna Revue, I mentioned gas prices and the affect it has on the economy of the Valley and asked that our dealers be given a lowered gas price, so without any loss to the dealer, he in turn can give it to us.

Since that writing, the wheels are starting to turn, but they need help . . yours

During the month of April, three major organizations, each with membership of over 150 are going to bring this matter up and see that letters are sent to the oil companies, not demanding, but asking why they cannot be fair with our areas.

We have already sent the first editorial to all major oil companies along with a letter and are awaiting their replies.

Write y our request, that prices in Elsinore & Perris be comparable with Corona & Riverside, send it to us here at the Revue office and we shall forward it to the company or companies you request.

Blank Pages

Were you one of the few that received your issue of La Luguna Revue with a blank page or two? It seems our press picked up a quirk during the press run and it went something like this, "Print, one, two, three, miss." If so just drop us a card and we shall immediately send you a new copy.

Vote April 12

We have in this issue of La Laguna Revue done our utmost to introduce to you each and every candidate running for Perris and Elsinore City Councils. We ask you the voter, to read all about them, look over their advertising and on April 12, VOTE.

Remember the most precions thing an American citizen has is the right to vote and once you walk into that booth, you can put the "X" beside any name you choose.

Laugh Page

On page 50 of this issue begins a new feature called the "Offbeat Observer". This is one of those pages, that has no reason for being—no purpose but to give everyone a good laugh and each month as you see it we hope that you will sincerely get your laugh of the month on our "Laugh Page".

Missing Features

A Trip To Alaska, Now That You Mention It and a few stories by Lo Vae Pray are not in this issue due to lack of space. They will be back with us next month, as well as a feature story on Rufus Hook of Perris and many more.

New Feature

News of Quail Valley will be added to the Revue. We have writing for us at this t i m e a distinguished gentleman from the Quail Valley area, who's byline will s i m p l y be "From Robin's corner".

Murrieta Post Office Gets New Trees

The Post Office at Murrieta is becoming one of the most attractively landscaped buildings in all of Murrieta.

It all began, when Mrs. Rhina Hamilton, owner of the building, had wide cement walks, curbs and gutters installed on the corner surrounding the post office.

Then came Arbor Day plans and the members of the Murrieta 4-H L i v e W i r e s decided for their project for that day for 1966 to get together and add to the landscaping of their town post office.

About twenty-five of the group, attired in their official 4-H outfits showed up on Saturday before Arbor Day, with shovels, hoses and other digging equipment and as a unit of one, dug the holes to plant two crepe myrtles and a fan palm, which was the donation to the project by Postmaster Jensen. The crepe myrtles were a gift from the 4-H members.

The post office of Murrieta dates back to April 16, 1885 when an application for it was filed in Washington, D.C., but through some clerical error, someone had changed the spelling to "Murrietta", and this name was carried through to the papers dated May 2, 1917, when Postmaster O. W. Miller was sent a form to fill in asking the surveying information so it could be filed in Washington. Once more the papers had both spellings of the name on it.

A b o u t September 16, 1924, with Mr. Miller still as postmaster, the papers for a topography were sent and at that time they read: "The name of my postoffice is Murrieta (Late Murrietta) Riverside County, California." It was then that the name "Murrieta" submitted in 1885, by W. B. Lashlee and witnessed by Macedonio Machado, Postmaster at Temecula Station, finally was spelled as it was meant to be.

These four men worked hard with the 4-H members to see that their project was a success. From left: Charles Gearhart of the Anza- Murrieta-Elsinore Soil Conservation group. Everett Greer, owner of Pomona Wholesale Nursery; Murrel C. Jensen, Postmaster of Murrieta Post Office and Mike Mance.

Candle Lite Ceremony

The lovely Miss Linda E. Hales became the bride of William C. Richards, U.S.N. in a candle lite ceremony performed at the First Baptist Church of Elsinore on February 12, in the presence over 125 guests. Rev. Daniel Wagner officiated at the double ring evening ceremony.

In the absence of the bride's father, Miss Hales was escorted to the altar by Frank Wallace.

Newlyweds Linda and Bill Richards

For her wedding, she chose a white lace over taffeta-bouffant and princess dress. She carried white roses centered with a white orchid on a white Bible, her gift from the bridegroom.

The bridegroom met her at the altar wearing the traditional Navy blues. His ushers all servicemen, wore their Navy uniforms also.

Attending the bride was Carolyn Treanor, attired in m i d n i g h t blue taffeta-princess carrying flower set of pink carnations.

Bridesmaid was Tonya Hales, sister of the bride, dressed in Robin's egg blue and carrying a flower piece of deeper pink carnations. Each of the girls wore a head dress of the same color net on a band.

Candle lighters, Karen Link and Dody Wallace were attired in floor length dotted swiss and they wore shoulder corsages of pink carnations.

The best man was Tim Duble and groomsman was Rick Anthony. Serving as ushers were Jim Richards, William Arnold and John C. Cerriero.

Tonya Hales, Carolyn Treanor, the bride and groom and flowergirl, Kathy Upton and ringbearer Joey Link.

The wedding part y in all their splendor.

Ringbearer was Joey Link, who carried the rings centered in red roses on a satin pillow. Mrs. R u t h Tarner was organist and Lois Lee, soloist. Numbers selected for the wedding were 'Because' and "Lord's Prayer". Flower girl was Kathy Upton, who wore a floor-length pink dotted swiss and carried a basket of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the newlyweds in the Church parlors.

They spent their honeymoon in Los Angeles and from there went to San Diego, where they intend to make their home for awhile.

The bride is a graduate of the Seattle High School and Business College. She was employed as a secretary at the Boeing Aircraft Plant before coming to Southern California.

The groom attended Elsinore Schools and joined the Navy in 1963, where he has earned the rating of ETR-3 Petty Officer. He is currently serving on the USS Constellation.

Chaffins' Remodel 40-year Home

Karen went to the Elsinore Schools and from there to Washington State University where she worked for the right to be a Juvenile Probation Officer, and received a certificate to prove the title.

Norman also went to Washington State University and received his major fore they met. It starts when Karen at the age of four was moved to Elsinore by her parents Mr. and Mrs. William C as s into this issues "Home of the Month". Mr. Cass will long be remembered in Elsinore—for the high school stadium is named "Cass" in memory of this fine man.

K a r e n and Norman Chaffin of Silver Street in Elsinore aren't any different than the average couple on the surface. They get up in the morning, go to work, eat three meals a day and have friends in now and again. This is on the surface.

Their story begins, be-

The living room of the house was quite a project for this young couple, for they wanted it modern, but not modern. So they chose an antique white paint for the walls and ceiling as well as the drapes, but the wood—Karen wanted it left as it was, much to the dismay of the few painters who helped with the more difficult part of the house. She and Norman did not decorate the house in a few weeks, or even months. This project has taken well over a year and each piece carefully selected.

Their furniture is Espranto by Drexel which means Land of Many and since both are schoolteachers, paying for extra courses in college, everything had to be on a budget and just what they wanted, for there was no changing their mind after an item was bought. They left the original fire place, but sealed off the two side windows and decorated the mantel with statuettes from Spain and a Coron a sword for the facing of the fireplace. (This is Norm's pride and joy, for it is hand crafted and has a hand-tooled case) The carpeting in both the dining and living room are a blue-green with a fringe all the way around. The divan is a floral print while the big oversized leather chair by the fireplace is of a dark red leather.

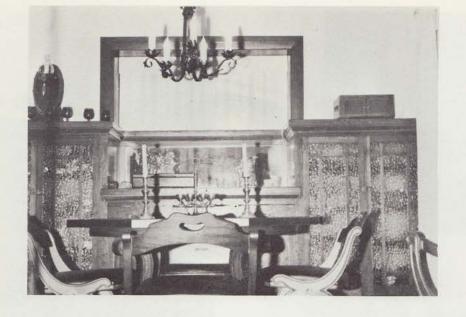

The kitchen is ultra modern in appliances, but hidden in one cabinet that runs from ceiling to basement is what old-timers called a cooling cabinet. It houses canned goods, vegetables and fruits and each shelf has a screen which permits the cool basement air to circulate around the food shelved there. The laundry center, has a washer, dryer and sink for those items one washes by hand.

The built-in stove and range does everything except set the kettles on top. It has a magic fan system that turns on and off according to the heat in the room, top burner control unit plus all the newest gadgets to make cooking a real pleasure. Karen's pride and joy is the food center. This is a fascinating modern gadget that is built directly into the top of the drainboard and underneath is housed a motor which when turned on operates any one of seven appliances. These include a blender, knife sharpener, mixer, shredder, juicer and so forth. When not in use, the appliances are stored and the sink top is flush with the rest.

A dishwasher and garbage disposal unit are also a part of this kitchen. For the walls and ceiling, the Chaffins chose a light aqua color and the wood is natural. The lined drapes are of matching green-blue shade.

The dining room with its game table of pecan wood is another story within itself. The far wall, which the Chaffins remodeled has the original breakfront that was in the house, but they chose to cover with paneling, two of the three windows and the overhead light, which is all of 40 years old, had an extension added to the short chain, leaving the light closer to the top of the table. Its light switch works so that the lights go from bright to very dim, leaving a glow of soft light reflected in the mirror on the breakfront center. On the one side of the breakfront wall is a wine holder, right of photo, shaped like the facing of an old-time barrel with a special holder for a liquid, that gives the appearance upon being discharged of coming from the barrel itself.

Karen's great pride is safely stored in the cupboards of the breakfront, bottom photo, all of the cut glass and china that her great-grandparents had and treasured and brought with them, by ship, to this country. On the center of the table is a soft-boiled egg cup set of brass or copper, and individual spoons, that Karen said as a little girl she used to tinkle as if they were bells, much to the sorrow of her parents.

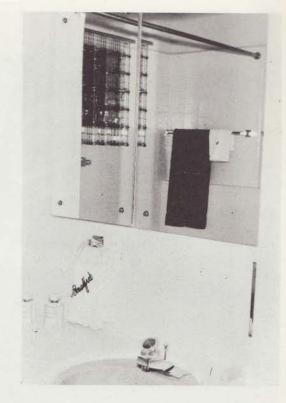

as a Clinical Psychologist. His college life began after he met Karen. He was employed at Alpha Beta when they first met, and as Karen put it, during their courtship s h e was the store's most frequent customer. But with college coming a long she and Norm wanted to be together so he enrolled in college and the courtship continued and they were married in 1958.

It was while Karen was in college s h e received. word her Dad had passed away and that the family home was now a part of an estate. She was under 21. funds for a college student were not easily attainable, but she wanted the house. She came back to Elsinore and with the able advice and help of the local bank was able to retain the family home. When she and Norm completed college they decided to move back to Elsinore and live in the

This is the room that is called the "economy room". It is the room where all of the items that they want to keep for sentimental reasons were placed. Photographs of the family, antique cups and saucers, marble top dresser and the likes. From this room leads the "work room" —in photo— where filing cabinets, a desk, books and off the side of one wall two certificates hang, one with Karens name and one with Normans. When asked why they weren't in the center of the wall Norman replied that the center was reserved for his and Karen's Master degrees, which both hope to have earned by June of this year.

The master bedroom and bath is carpeted in a white, deep pile fuzzy rug, and the main color in the room is an avacado green with gold trim. The bath is beige and gold trimmed, with an ingenious idea on the mirrors. They are hinged medicine cabinet fronts, but when opened they form a three-way mirror enabling the user to see every hair on their head while combing it. Both baths have the new hanging type water closets and tile half walls and pullmans. The guest bath (see photo) is decorated in a royal blue with white trim and beaded drapes.

house. It was then they discovered that both had degrees, but what on earth good they were in Elsinore or any other near-by town was another matter.

So, back to school they both went and began to study for teacher's credentials.

In the meantime, Karen got a position at the Perris Elementary School in 1958 and Norman at the Elsinore Elementary School.

By the time they taught all day, studied all night they were too tired to do much with the house, but one year ago, they started to remodel and this they did as the pictures on these pages will show.

Norman, the first day we were doing the photos, had just received word that he

Years ago the hallway was just the place for the telephone and at that time a small telephone wallhole was the usual thing, but today it now is the home of the stereo (left) set and AM-FM radio, speakers for same go through the rest of the house, wellhidden in the furniture and the music seems to come from all over the house, patio and back yard.

A spacious back yard is the finale to the Chaffin home. Most yards are for patios, grass and barbecue pits. Chaffins have this, that is for certain, but surrounding this luxury are fruit trees of every variety, from peach to crab apple.

was selected to be the first Administrative Assistant in charge of special projects such as the new "Head Start" program. He will no longer be teaching the third graders at Wildomar, but will have an office on Graham Avenue in the building that housed Dr. Cavanaugh's Lakeside Clinic. Norman will report directly to John Miller, Elsinore's new superintendent. This is one of the biggest steps in Norman's life, for he was chosen for this position over many other qualified persons.

After they completely finish the interior of the house, they intend to begin work on the outside, but with the knowledge they have already learned from their "do it yourself inter-ior", they are certain that it should go easier—they hope.

I remember when

by Ellsworth Brady

On watching our present flow of water as it flows lazily under the San Jacinto River Bridge on its way to replenish Lake Elsinore, I am reminded of another year—1927 to be exact.

It had rained an awful lot that winter and with so much water backing up behind the Hemet Dam, flood gates had to be opened. Everywhere was water, and as it picked up force on its down-stream run, mans puny barriers, to its gathering force were either run over or torn out.

The old road between Perris and Hemet was flooded for some distance, and then as the muddy waters found their way to the Railroad Canyon Dam, floodgates there had to be opened. Down came the snarling waters, eating away and tearing out anything in its path that hindered its progress. First the wooden bridge below the dam and then the tracks, trees and ties.

The bridge finally came to rest against the old railroad bridge as ties, trees, limbs and so forth were swept on their downward journey to Lake Elsinore.

I was told that the Lake raised one foot per hour during the flood.

The picture showing the man (unknown) on the bridge where it was resting at the time, was taken from the eastern end of the Railroad Bridge and the camera was pointed northeast in a parallel position to the new Freeway 71 and bridge.

The middle photo shows the old wooden bridge on Railroad Avenue (Highway 395 at that time). This picture was taken from the old railroad bridge looking south and shows the small amount of clearence between river and bridge.

The third photo, also taken from the east end of the railroad bridge is looking up Railroad Avenue toward the city of Elsinore, and s h o w s the western approach of the bridge washed out, and the shine on the pavement shows how far up the avenue the river reached.

If you take a magnifying glass and 1 o o k carefully you can see the lead car of a string of parked autos stopped at the water's edge. Location today is the Sportsman's Lodge.

SUN CITY LIONS

The Second Annual Students Speakers Contest for the Sun City Lions Club was held at the Kings Inn in the Crown Room on March 3.

Since Sun City has no high school from which to draw competitors, their friendly neighbor, Perris Union High School, supplied three students—Michael Rivers, Marsha Smith and Debbie Specht, under the tutorage of their speech coach, Mrs. Carol Harner. They presented their own version of the national topic "Law and Liberty".

Debbie Specht

The competition was spirited, all were excellent and the judgs task difficult. When the points were tabulated M is s Specht was declared the winner of the contest and will represent Sun City Lions Club at the one meeting. Judges were Dr. Samuel Michaels, Lion Vander Walker and George Schlotter.

The winner of the zone meeting contest then proreds to the regional and the n to district compe-

ELSINORE CANDIDATE Eugene J. Carter

As a candidate for the City Council seat, in Elsinore, I herewith bring forth a partial of my program for the building of Elsinore and the entire Valley.

A direct result of the Voters confidence in electing me to the City Council I, Eugene J. Carter propose the following action.

A thorough renovating of the policy of retrenchment, and the removal of barriers that retard the growth of this community, either by restraint of trade, or a policy of do nothing that reacts to the benefit of a few.

I will seek corrective measures through the City Council, and if necessary will seek action through the County, State, or Federal Government.

Action already started to secure Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars of Tidewater Oil Money, that Elsinore is Entitled to receive for Capital Improvements.

I will demand that the County Government open the closed hospital as a branch of the County General Hospital.

Establishment of a Unified Junior College in Elsinore upon land granted by the City of Elsinore as proposed to the County and School District Organization.

My program is one of

imagination and vision, that already brought forth many improvements that I have already seen the fruits of my leadership, with no increase in taxation.

As I have in the past and will in the future seek legislation that will be of benefit for the good and welfare of all people.

I plead for your support and as an Independent Candidate, I shall represent you as I would wish to be represented.

Thanks for your support.
Respectfully submitted,

John L. Merrifield

John L. Merrifield, proprietor of John's Furniture and Appliances and owner-operator of John's Ambulance Service is a hopeful candidate this year for councilman for the City of Elsinore.

He has had several years of experience working on the Elsinore Planning Commission as chairman and with this experience and his interest in the community as a businessman and native-born son, his qualifications are unequalled.

"So many things need to be done," he said, "but possibly the three firsts would be:

First, to reactivate the Planning commission and give them full support of the council so that a public works and capital improvement program can be put into effect. Second, work as a 5-man unit by understanding and discussion and third to create in the public a good image of local government."

"With these three accomplished, all other things will fall in their respective places and cooperation with local groups will be; the business district will be strengthened, and the valley will have something to show with pride."

Merrifield said that he had no campaign promises because promises are to be easily forgotten or broken, and conditions change, but the above objectives are points which can be a reality with proper leadership, and he feels that he can give this leadership as a member of the city council.

- 1. Improved Police and Fire Protection. (Police Department is now closed from 4:00 P.M. Friday to 8:00 A.M. Monday and calls must be routed through Riverside.)
 - 2. Improve City Streets
 - 3. A Living Wage for City Employees
 - 4. More Efficient Garbage & Trash Collection
 - 5. Clean Up City Entrances Eliminate condemned buildings
 - 6. Cooperate harmoniously with other Council Members
 - 7. Keep Public advised on tax Spending
- I believe these things can be done with more efficient use of present city income without increasing taxes. I feel there should be close and continuing personal contact, between citizens and city government. I'll try my best to do a good job.

Rupert H. Lucas

Rupert H. Lucas

Rupert Lucas spent vacations in Elsinore for 35 years. Six years ago he and Mrs. Lucas came to live in Elsinore permanently in a home he had built. For 30 years he had worked for the Los Angeles Postal Department.

Mr. Lucas served four years on the Elsinore Planning Commission. He said he feels this gives him a better knowledge of city business than he would otherwise have had. His main concern is annexation and putting sewers into the city. He said "Due to poor percolation tests, the lending instutitions are n o t going to advance money to develop this valley without sewers.

Galley no. Ten

He wants to help unify the relations between the City Council and the voters of Elsinore. "Nature has given the tools to make this the leading city in the Southland if we forget selfish interests and stop fighting among ourselvesputting every shoulder to the wheel.

He and Mrs. Lucas have one daughter and three grand children.

CANDIDATE - ELSINORE CANDIDATE - ELSINORE Kenneth Abbott

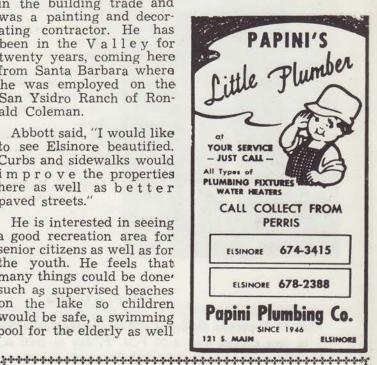

Kenneth Abbott is the supervisor of grounds and buildings for Elsinore Union High School and Elementary School Districts. He formerly worked in the building trade and was a painting and decorating contractor. He has been in the Valley for twenty years, coming here from Santa Barbara where he was employed on the San Ysidro Ranch of Ronald Coleman.

Abbott said, "I would like to see Elsinore beautified. Curbs and sidewalks would improve the properties here as well as better paved streets."

He is interested in seeing a good recreation area for senior citizens as well as for the youth. He feels that many things could be done such as supervised beaches on the lake so children would be safe, a swimming pool for the elderly as well as one for youngsters and more cooperation between the state and county.

He and his wife are the parents of three children and grandparents of three.

Re-ELECT

HILBERT H.

INCUMBENT

For Elsinore COUNCILMAN

INCUMBENT — PERRIS Royce Bell

Royce Bell has served four years on the City of Perris Council.

In seeking reelection Mr. Bell states: "I promise only to search for the best possible solution to the problems facing Perris. I am not, nor will I become, obligated to anyone or any fixed point of view. I promise no one any favors except the same consideration that any and all citizens of Perris deserve.

I promise to continue to ask questions and to challenge simple solutions to complex problems. If elected, I will continue to be aggressive in protecting the interest of Perris because I feel that it is my duty to the more than 4,000 citizens of our community and to the future generations.

If the voters want a councilman who will sit at their policy table and merely listen, they should not put the "X" after my name. On the other hand, if they want a councilman who will raise questions and participate in the discussion of problems and be concerned with solving those problems rather than making friends and influencing people, I would appreciate their vote."

Royce Bell

CANDIDATE — PERRIS Beverly J. Heidanus

Mrs. Beverly J. Heidanus has lived in the Perris Valley for 17 years and thirteen of those years in the city of Perris. She is a graduate of UCR and has been teaching in the Riverside Unified School District for the past twelve years; was a Girl Scout leader for one of the first troops formed in Perris and a 4-H leader for five years.

She worked with the group that succeeded in obtaining sewer connections for Rancho Villagers.

Her objectives as a council member will he: "To consider and understand the views of others while remaining objective."

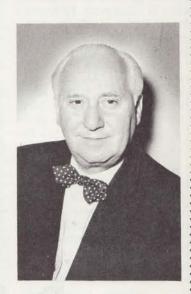

On the water problem, Mrs. Heidanus feels that the only adequate and financially sound solution is to join Eastern Municipal Water District.

It's that time again down Murrieta way. On the 24th of this month, which is a Sunday, some 2000 people will gather at the fire house to partake of the barbecued meat prepared by the men of the Volumer teer Fire Department.

This thing has been going on for nineteen years, ever since the first fire house was built and the boys and their wives put on the first barbecue to celebrate the completion of it s head-quarters. Every year the crowds grow bigger while the town of Murrieta still barely exceeds 300 legal residents. Then from where do all these people come? Pull up a chair and we will try to explain.

It seems that once you have lived in Murrieta, even for only a few years, you will always have a longing to return. The annual barbecue has given, these homesick people the excuse they needed to return each year and they come from many distant points out of state.

Some of the old timers get a hankering to pitch just one more game of horse shoes or sit under the shade of a tree and whittle with one of the ir old cronies while chewing on a sprig of barley.

Then too there are the tourists who have heard about the charm of Murrieta and they want to visit the famous Town Hall they have read so much about and shake hands with those characters who make up the board of directors. This writer was one of those characters for six or seven years and served as secretary during all that time. We still look back with fond memories of those monthly meetings.

Murrieta has a brand new fire house, just completed, and it will be the setting for this year's barbecue. The service is all day as long as the food lasts but come early and stay late and listen to some of those fantastic tales told by the old timers. Bring along your tape recorder. There are not too many of the old pioneers left. Where they followed a plow on foot their sons ride a tractor and even fly airplanes, Charlie Yoder and a group of airminded young men have formed a flying club and a modern airport has been established on the Yoder property. So you see Murrieta fast is becoming modern and there is not too much time left if you wish to get a glimpse of the "good old days".

Even those long walks in the night air are becoming a thing of the past. Nearly all the homes have modern plumbing. Sears catalogues are now u s e d to buy tractors, washing machines, dryers and colored television sets. It's a whole new world.

Just one thing we must warn you about when you visit Murrieta. Watch out for two very friendly men. One goes by the name of Harry Winter and the other is Carl Cain. Both these men are real estate brokers. Harry is the pioneer real estate agent in the valley and Carl is the educated member of the Town Hall board of directors. If either one of these men corner vou vou will be a Murrieta land owner before you get away. Harry caught us back in 1954 and it was nine years before we were able to get out of Murrieta. But we loved every minute of it.

And don't fail to look up Raymond Thompson, perennial Fire Chief. To Raymond goes the credit for just about all the modern improvements Murrieta has He was the first fire chief and it was he who promoted the new fire house and the water system which boasts of a number of fire hydrants scattered around town. He was the chief organizer and first president of the Town Hall and an active organizer of the Murrieta Chamber of Commerce. He may give you a pitch on the merits of his town but he won't try to sell you anything.

SPOKANE

(Prounounce it spo-KAN)

Few cities can boast a full-fledged natural waterfall in the heart of the business center. In Spokane, Washington, on the river that is graced by the same name, Spokane Falls plunges over a rocky precipice to dramatize the city's many bridges. The falls are within a stone's-throw of the Spokane post office and chamber of commerce. The city's biggest business structures crowd around it-

Along the river's banks, in 1812, the Pacific Fur Co. established Fort Spokane, an isolated outpost designed to trade with the Indians for pelts of animals that were so plentiful in the virgin forests. The town it self was established around the middle of the nineteenth century and for many years was known as Spokane Falls.

The Spokane Indians, before President Thomas Jefferson sent the Lewis and Clark expedition to explore their domain, lived in a paradise of plunging rivers, sparkling lakes, deep for-ests and b r o a d rolling prairies. Their chief proudly bore the title of Il-lim spokanee, which has been interpreted as Son of the Others who have studied the Spokane Indian dialect say that it means Chief of the Sun People. All seem agreed that the word Spo kane refers to the sun. It has been surmised that the Spokanes, or Spo-kan-ees, were so named by tribes living in the neighborhood of Mount Rainier to the west because the home of the Spokanes was in the east where the sun rises.

At any rate the Spokanes lived in a land blessed with an abundance of sunshine that bathed a vast domain of grandeur wrapped in solitude The warm sunlight, mingling with spicy winds that blew off nearby snowy peaks, was so cherished by the Spokanes that when they arose in the morning to greet the sun and their friends, instead of saying Good Morning, their salutation was Hust-Spokanee, which literally means Good Sun!

Today the sun still shines. and the winds still blow through the pines and across the clear lakes as m o d e r n Spokane greets each new day with a Hust-Spokanee!

The Truth Is ...

Many people have strange misconceptions about cats and as they talk to friends and relatives about their pets, a goodly number of these untruths are perpetuated. Here are some popularly held notions about cats that are just so much "fancy."

Some people think that cats have nine lives. The truth is that cats have no more lives than any other animal. It is probable, however, that pets are living longer these days due to improved care and a balanced food.

Some people think that cats should eat lots of red meat. Actually pets need the nutrients meat provides, but they must have others too. The best food for Kitty is a commercially prepared "complete meal"-dry ration, fed straight or mixed with canned tuna for cats-with the bones removed.

Some people think that cats love fish and must be fed milk. Some cats like both of these foods; others just don't. If you serve Kitty fish, do so as a supplementary ration and remove all the bones.

Other people think that table scraps are good for a cat since the food is perfectly wholesome for humans. The cat experts at the Purina Pet Care Center in St. Louis warn that scraps can dull the cat's appetite for the regular balanced ration, won't provide all the required nutrients and vitamins, and the left-over gravies and rich foods can give Kitty indigestion.

The Wearing of the Green . . . Scout Green

The Girl Scouts of Elsinore held their annual dinner on the eve of St. Patrick's Day at the Machado Street School.

This dinner, a big event in the lives of the Girl Scouts, Junior Scouts and Brownies, is prepared by the girls and their parents, and this year over 200 persons enjoyed the repast.

The program began with the presentation of colors by m e m b e r s of Junior Troop No. 12. Rev. James Dewiggins of the Southern Baptist C h u r c h of Riverside gave the invocation followed by the scouts saying the Girl Scout grace.

Mrs. Helen Flesher, service unit chairman, introduced the visitors, (see photo) and presented Trudy and Hugh Walker a certificate of appreciation for letting the Scout troops put an annual display in the window of their business—C. W. Harris and Son to promote scouting and scouting activities.

The program was turned over to Senior Troop Ad-

A Report on the Accidential Death of a Soldier

When the worst was over and a new life had begun, death came. William A. Blevens. ENMS graduate of the class of '57, after having been wounded in the service of his country while a member of the elite "Green Berets", that special service force which performs perhaps the most dangerous tasks in the war, was killed after his discharge from the service by an antique gun which accidentally exploded while he was handling it.

After having survived the ordeal of the serious wounds received in Germany on a special mission, he was sent home where he began a career as a premed student at the University of Southern California. There, with his wife Nancy, where both worked, he was brilliantly performing his duties as a lab assistant and his future in medicine looked bright. Then his death.

It is fitting at this time to review his career here at ENMS and in the service. Certainly he was a credit to this school and to his country.

The following letter sent to Mr. Blevens in July of 1961 sums up his success in the service of his country. It was written as a letter of commendation by Lawrence K. Vann., Lt., MSC, Commanding:

"Your selection as Soldier of the Quarter and Soldier of the Year is an honor earned by you in competion with personnel representing six company size units of a combined strength of 457 men. You were judged on military

You displayed a keen mind, sound judgement, mature approach and professional competence in all areas of interest. Your superior score in each of the categories gives mute testimony to your ability to grasp essential facets of a wide variety of subjects.

"Congratulations on your highly commendable performance before the boards and may you be motivated to seek even further development of your intrinsic assets so that you may enrich your life and serve your country to your best ability."

Mrs. Flyte, Captain Blevens' English teacher and the only member of the teaching faculty still here who had him in class, told this reporter that he was undoubtedly on e of the most brilliant young people she had ever met. She recalls that it was a chore to find reading material which was sufficiently challenging to him. His interests were legion that he pursued them fully is evidenced by the letter of commendation above.

The Elsinore Naval and Military School has, in his honor, contributed funds for a memorial to Captain Blevens, which will be a part of the projected chapel. Here is a copy of a letter from Captain Blevens parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buryl to Colonel Conklin which will prove of interest to all friends and alumni.

"We wish to thank you and the Board of Trustees of Elsinore N a v a l and Military School for the contributation made to the chapel fund in honor of the memory of our son, Captain (retired) William A l l a n Blevens. We know that this act would have pleased Bill very much.

Home is the Sailor

For a few hours on February 14, 1966, Lt. Roy N. Wallace of the U.S. Navy left his ship the USS De Haven in Long Beach Harbor to visit his old high school campus at the Elsinore Naval and Military School. The special occasion was his appearance before the school's Academic Council Assembly where Lt. Wallace spoke of his observations on the Vietnam conflict, having just returned from his fourth assignment in that area. Clearly and forcefully he pointed out the purpose of the United States in remaining in Vietnam in fulfilling its treaty obligations and safeguarding the future. Lt. Wallace also addressed the members of the Grand Avenue Civic Association as a part of a program put on by the International Club of the Military School.

Lt. Wallace's former English teacher, Mrs. Gertrude Flyte, recalled for us something of his educational background. Graduating from ENMS in 1957, Roy was a straight "A" student and valedictorian of his class. He participated in all extraordistics and served as editor of the 1917 Academy.

His first year at college was taken at the University of California, Los Angeles where he maintained his usual high scholastic standards. At the end of that year, Wallace was one of 10 young men in the United States selected on a nonpartisan basis for the U.S. Naval Academy where he maintained a 3.5 or over average during his entire four years at the Academy. He graduated in 1962 with Col. Glenn Conklin, President of E N M S, going to Annapolis for the graduation activities. To C o l. Conklin we are indebted for information on various honors Wallace received. He was among the first 100 students and ranked 21st in a class of 860. He ranked second in his class in English and Government winning a Navy Dress sword at the graduation ceremonies for ranking highest among his classmates in the History Department. In his Junior year he tied for first place for an essay on Political Science, winning a gold watch.

While at the Naval Academy, he was one of the Navy team against Army in the College Bowl television series. Following his graduation, he was recommended for a R h o d e s Scholarship.

While advancing steadily in his assignments with the Navy (he is now Executive Officer), Lt. Wallace still hopes to take advanage of some of the scholarships offered in order to further his education. He has a strong desire to study International Law which Col. Conklin says Wallace attributes to his interest in the International Club of the Elsinore Naval and Military School.

Col.. and Mrs. Conklin had the pleasure of lunching with Lt. Wallace on board the De Haven shortly before his departure for future assignment in Mediterranean waters. Col. Conklin is justifiably proud of the good record these former students of ENMS are making in their service to their country.

Easter wishes to you

City Manager Jay Guler Resigns

Jay V. Guler, Elsinore's first city manager, resigned his position effective April 15, in order to take an overseas job with the State Department. He and his wife, Betty, will leave for Washington D. C. and from the rewill go overseas. Their daughter, Brijet, will remain in Elsinore with her grandmother until she graduates in June from high school.

Jay c a m e to Elsinore from the position as administrator for the City of Commerce in Los Angeles County. He graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree from LA State College.

During his administration in Elsinore, a domestic water system has been built in the city, as well as a new system to take the city's mineral water to those desiring it in the water-loop; an over-all planning project for the city is in progress and an entire new system of city lighting has been installed.

Civic Committee Launches 'Get-Out-The-Vote' Campaign

Works Closely With City Administration

A goal of 100% was set by the Get-Out-The-Vote Committee as election day draws near. The city administration pledged close cooperation and promised to tap all resources in getting voters to the polls.

An administration spokesman said, "Of course, we want all eligible voters to be at the polls election day and we'll do everything in our power to achieve this end."

Opposition charges that the administration was exercising undue influence on all those within their authority were dismissed as "sour apples."

PERRIS CANDIDATE

Dorothy Jean Groves

In seeking election to the City Council I am doing what friends have been urging for six years. I have always been interested in city government, and believe it is possible for the average citizen to play an effective role in local politics.

Our family came to this community sixteen years ago, and two years later we purchased a home. We have lived here continuously ever since except for a period of time when my husband was stationed in Germany.

I have been active in community affairs for many years. For 14 years I have been a Girl Scout leader; 12 years a troop leader, two years vice-president, and two years as neighborhood chairman in charge of all Perris Valley Girl Scouting. This was an extremely successful period for the district, with the largest number of scouts and leaders. Also, I am a veteran of 25 years of leadership in the PTA, holding various offices from secretary to room mother. As a member of the Nuevo Woman's Club I have been active in their projects for community improvement.

A founder and charter member of the Perris Garden Club, I have served two years as its president. I helped to start the Flower Show and Christmas Decorating Contest. The Garden Club succeeded in obtaining landscaping for the freeway entrances. We also planned and planted greenery a round the Statler Youth Center.

I have spent most of my adult life working with young people. As mother of four children, three of them products of the Perris School system, I believe Perris is a good place to raise children and a good place for families to live.

For the past twelve years I have been associated with the Stanley Home Products Company, and thus qualify as a successful self-emyloyed business woman. My company has honored me with many of their sales awards. Last November I was one of the top seven dealers in the Western United States and Mexico. Since I own my own business I have a better understanding of the problems of a small business than would otherwise be possible. This experience would help in conducting the business of our city.

During the past month I have s p e n t considerable t i m e becoming familiar with the functioning of the city council. I believe I am qualified to be a good city council member. If elected, I will be able to represent a very large cross-section of our community. Due to my personal acquaintance with many citizens of our city, I am in a position to know their desires, and I commit myself to the following the wishes of my constituency.

The city council should work closely with the Chamber of Commerce to attract new industry to Perris. In this period of change and development, the city council should work with the Planning Commission for the best interests of our area.

I pledge myself to work for needed street improvements. One of the things we need most is to install sidewalks leading to the schools. Many of our children are exposed to constant danger while walking to school.

Our civic entere should be more of a community center and a meeting place for our young people. The Junior Woman's Club and the Rotary Club are doing a good job along this line, but they need help.

It is quite important to improve the approaches to Perris, as the first impression is often a lasting one. the Banta Beatty Park is a definite asset to our town, giving enjoyment to many people. However, it needs care and improvement. Vacant lots throughout the city need cleaning up. A way must be found to help owners of sub-standard homes to improve their property. All of these things will help Perris grow.

Our city water system should remain in our hands. I don't like giving away our only source of revenue besides taxes.

I ask for your vote on April 12th, for I believe I am the best qualified candidate for city council. I will serve you well if elected. Grow with Perris and Grow with Groves.

Dorothy Jean Groves

Is This Anyway to Run a Magazine? You Bet It Ain't!

We should have La Laguna Revue on every newsstand in Riverside County and we should have a correspondent in every town in the County. All the business houses in the County should have an ad in the magazine and every home owner should be a paid subscriber.

Also our publisher should be riding around in a Cadillac instead of that old station wagon and should learn to smoke cigars instead of cigarettes.

It isn't like we hadn't thought of all this and we were all for doing it in the beginning but you know what? It takes a lot of money!

So we decided we would take it slow and easy and gradually expand. You can help by seeing that your name is on our Subscription list and if everyone who reads this would do that, who knows, some day we might have a subscriber on the moon!
